

THE GRAND PIANO

As I sit at my grand piano, memories flood my mind then my wife's ghost sat next to me she played the first few notes. Leaning forward, she kissed me on the cheek. Suddenly she disappeared into thin air. I glanced forward to think of Emily one last time ... then I remembered Jim and me in the war I could have saved him but I did not.