

The piano of memories

As I sit at my old dusty well-used piano, my fingers press the keys to make a beautiful melody. Out of the corner of my eyes, I can see my wonderful wife Angela kissing me on the cheek ever so gently. The room filled with love and memories. I love my wife still to this day she is the kindest person I have ever met.

As my wife fades away, my head started to spin.